We recently did some research and discovered that over half our guidebooks have no direct competition at all (the complete list is available on our website). Other travel publishers either ignore those destinations entirely or include only brief information about them in guides to larger regions. But these are all places worthy of comprehensive guidebooks, and we are proud to help visitors discover them.

Adding to this list of ‘one and only’ titles in 2016 are brand new guides to Ivory Coast (p 8), The Basque Country and Navarre (p 5) and Alpe-Adria Trail (p 7). There are also new editions of unique Bradt destinations, including Seychelles (p 2), The Peloponnese (p 4), Haiti (p 13), Uzbekistan (p 9) and Zambia (p 7).

However, several of our bestselling titles are to more mainstream countries like Malta and Iceland. We often have the most recent guides to these destinations, and we always pride ourselves on having the best authors. Our authors are passionate and knowledgeable, whether opening the door to somewhere undiscovered or going deeper into somewhere more familiar. It is therefore no surprise that Bradt authors Hilary Bradt and Janice Booth won this year’s Best Guidebook of the Year Award (for North Devon & Exmoor, in our ever-growing series of UK titles).

Away from guidebooks, we are delighted to be publishing the eagerly awaited autobiography of Jonathan Scott (p 8) – presenter of the hit TV series Big Cat Diary. And another welcome addition to our list of travel writing is Gullible’s Travels (p 8), John Carter’s humorous collection of tales gathered while working as a travel presenter on TV shows like Wish You Were Here…?

Our company strapline is ‘Pioneering guides to exceptional places’. It was true in 1974 when we started, and it remains just as true today as we look forward to 2016. Happy travels!

BORNEO
Tamara Thiessen
Sabah • Brunei • Sarawak
The Bradt guide to Borneo is the only guide dedicated to Sabah, Sarawak and Brunei. In this new edition from expert author Tamara Thiessen, a full update has been undertaken, with particular attention paid to ensuring all practical information in the guide is up to date. Also revised are the deforestation and conservation sections, along with government and politics in light of changes in the national (Malaysian/Brunei) and state (Sabah, Sarawak) situation. Maps have been rechecked and updated where required, and new ‘expert voices’ comment boxes have been added. Borneo is the only island in the world to house states and a country belonging to three different nations—the East Malaysian states of Sabah and Sarawak, Indonesian Kalimantan and the oil-rich sultanate of Brunei. This guide is dedicated to Brunei and the Malaysian states.

THE BIG CAT MAN
Jonathan Scott
This new autobiography by Jonathan Scott reveals the extraordinary life of one of the world’s most popular wildlife celebrities, who rose to international fame as a presenter on the Big Cat Diary, one of the BBC’s most popular and long-running wildlife series.

Artist, safari guide, author and TV personality, Jonathan’s observations of wildlife over the years prompt him to reflect on his own life, revealing a side to his character that he has struggled to overcome since childhood. Aged nearly forty, he finally finds peace through meeting and marrying his wife, Angela, but their world is changed forever the day that Angie is diagnosed with a cranial aneurism requiring urgent brain surgery. Facing up to that challenge draws them even closer together and leads them on a spiritual journey to rival anything they have undertaken before. Ultimately, The Big Cat Man is a love story: one man’s infatuation with Africa and his unfailing devotion to the woman who shares his passion.

Jonathan’s writing makes for a fascinating safari through a life lived in the world’s most spectacular wilderness area. His book raises uncomfortable questions about the future of wildlife on a continent where the needs of the people sometimes seem overwhelming; it will bring hope to those who have struggled with their own demons and been afraid to seek help; but most of all it will be an inspiration for those who long to follow their dream, whatever it may be.

SERIES LISTINGS
In addition to our country and regional guides, we publish a range of series for discerning travellers, from city guides to books on wildlife and travel narratives.

City Guides
A small range of carefully selected titles written by hand-picked authors, offering a greater depth of coverage than is found in most other city guides. A good city guide should leave you feeling as if you have been gently immersed in a cultural spa and come out exhilarated and refreshed. We hope you find that ours do just that.
